

Opening Windows of Opportunity

Establishing learning networks, serving migrating children in Europe through international education

13 – 15 November 2024
The Hague, the Netherlands

In the past decade, primary school classroom demographics in larger European cities have changed remarkably. This change is the result of increasing mobility, globalisation and conflict driven displacement, and has required adaptation at many levels of society. Some national curriculums have made noteworthy efforts to tailor to a more multilingual, multicultural and pluriliterate student population, while others are yet to take the leap.

In this Training & Cooperation Activity (TCA), the Dutch National Agency \(NA\) Erasmus+ Education & Training, in cooperation with the Bridging the Gap Foundation, will provide a platform for discussion on suitable educational approaches for migrant and refugee children in terms of language, curriculum, global citizenship, inclusion and the needs for the 21st century primary school classroom.

Serving as backdrop for the discussion is a local case study from The Hague, Netherlands, where a public school enriched the national curriculum with the International Baccalaureate's (IB) Primary Years Programme (PYP). Situated in one of the most complex and diverse neighbourhoods in the city, the school became a learning hub for education in underserved communities. The inquiry-based, transdisciplinary curriculum framework is proving to be a welcome transition to more student-centred, inclusive education.

THEMES

Primary education; international baccalaureate; curriculum development; migration; labour migrants; globalisation/global citizenship; inclusion and diversity; professional development; networking

GOALS

Participants will...

1. understand the potential of international education, in particular PYP, in schools with (labour) migrant and refugee children in underserved communities;
2. initiate international learning networks serving migrating children in Europe through international education, and
3. draft concrete plans for collaboration in realising potential curriculum adaptations.

EXPECTED RESULTS

The ideal outcome of this TCA would be the establishment of international learning networks, serving migrating children in Europe, supported by the Erasmus+ programme.
