TCA DESCRIPTION

Themes and goals: The current Covid-19 pandemic has forced students and academics to switch to online teaching modes. Thus the process of digitalisation in higher education has evolved rapidly. In 2020, the European Commission published a special call for proposals for Strategic Partnerships focusing on digitalisation, inviting universities and other stakeholders to prepare and submit digitalisation projects. Digitalization is visible in different areas of HEIs' activities: teaching, research, serving to society, internal management. This was expressed in the submitted proposals. During the seminar, we would like to: invite participants to share lessons learnt so far from implementation of "digitalisation driven" projects, discuss with the participants and experts what digital university should look like,

 \cdot analyse which kinds of knowledge and skills can be taught online, and check how universities address the challenges of changing the learning process in the digital era.

Expected results: Exchange of good practices and recommendations for HEIs how to prepare

University for a challenges related with digitalisation of HEIs and new modes of online teaching and learning.

Additional Registration for Erasmus+ webinar:

information: https://ec.europa.eu/eusurvey/runner/DigitalUniversityWe are looking for good practice examples - speakers for the following topics:- Digitalisation of learning processes- Digitalisation of university management Increasing digital competences of academic staff.
